‘How am I to pay for my medical bills now?’

Jobless teen left distraught after being denied support allowance

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A TEENAGER in need of a kidney transplant is angry she will not be allowed a sickness benefit.

Brooke Johnson, 19, of Manor Road, Harlow, has autoimmunity, a condition that causes the body's immune system to attack healthy cells.

After suffering symptoms including anaemia, nausea, high blood pressure, vision problems and fatigue, she was forced to quit her job at Home Bargains and defer studying for her A levels.

With her medical bills soaring, Brooke's family were hoping state support could ease their financial pressures, but now feel failed by the system.

Diagnosed

Brooke said: "My body eats itself. I have had it for years but I was only diagnosed in April.

"The tiredness is unreal and I cannot walk very far. I could not work because of it and I have constant hospital visits.

"It was really bad to leave my job as I did enjoy it there. I am doing nothing, just waiting around for hospital appointments."

She needs a new kidney and has to have dialysis. Members of her family are being considered as potential kidney donors.

While Brooke is confident of finding a donor, they would need to be compatible and the process could take at least a year.

The Lister Hospital in Stevenage, where Brooke goes for treatment

She expressed her gratitude to those who have offered to be donors.

Her medication costs £43 a month and every trip to a specialist at Lister Hospital in Stevenage costs £20, not including petrol and parking costs, which has left the family struggling to make ends meet.

In addition Darren Johnson, Brooke's father, has to take holiday time from work to give her a lift.

Brooke added: "I thought I would be entitled to ESA (employment and support allowance benefit).

"But when I got there [to the Jobcentre] they said I was not."

She explained that because her boyfriend Joseph lives with the family they are seen as a cohabiting couple in the eyes of the law. Joseph is therefore expected to foot the bill, despite an income described as "low".

"I get down and it is a very bad situation," said Brooke, who hopes to study to be a forensic pathologist.

Patricia Slominski, Brooke's grandmother, said: "I am hoping this time next year she can have her life back. She is very bright.

Entitled

"Her family pays for the medication but I think she is entitled to something in her own right.

"This should have been picked up last year.

"She has been badly let down and I think it is disgusting."

Brooke's mum Tara has started a petition and will contact Harlow MP Robert Halfon to ask for support.

"I want to let people know how things like this happen," she said. "Everyone has let her down."

A spokesman from the Department for Work and Pensions said: "Income-related ESA is prioritised for people in low-income households.

"Someone's eligibility may be affected by their partner's income."

Campaign to promote career as a constable

ESSEX Police has launched a campaign to recruit more full time constables for the force.

The "Fit the Bill" campaign features serving Essex Police officers and aims to showcase the variety of roles on offer within the force and the varied backgrounds team members have come from.

As well as making a difference to the lives of people in the community, recruits will benefit from an exciting career, where no two days are the same.

If you think can care for vulnerable people, protect the innocent, lock up criminals, run towards danger and investigate complex and challenging crimes, then you may just fit the bill to join your local police force.

In time, constables will also have the opportunity to progress to specialist roles with the opportunity to work in teams including CID, firearms, sexual abuse investigation, economic crime, roads policing and more.

As a new Police Constable, recruits will begin on a salary of £23,639 which could rise to £40,000 within the first seven years.

New starters will also benefit from being able to join the police pension scheme and can expect five weeks leave each year.

Joiners will take part in training which consists of:

- 18 weeks at the Essex Police College;
- 10 weeks assigned to local policing;
- 18 weeks of investigation training with attachments to our CID, domestic abuse investigation, public protection and community policing teams.

Various

During their time at college, recruits will learn about the law, how to deal with various situations they will face on the frontline, defensive skills and first aid training, crime scene management and suspect interview training among other practical skills.

Deputy Chief Constable BJ Harrington, who has been a police officer for 27 years, said: "I joined the police service because I wanted to help people, keep them safe, catch bad guys and give something back to the community."

"For me being a police officer is about standing up for people and what is right. If those things appeal to you then being a police officer is a fantastic career choice."

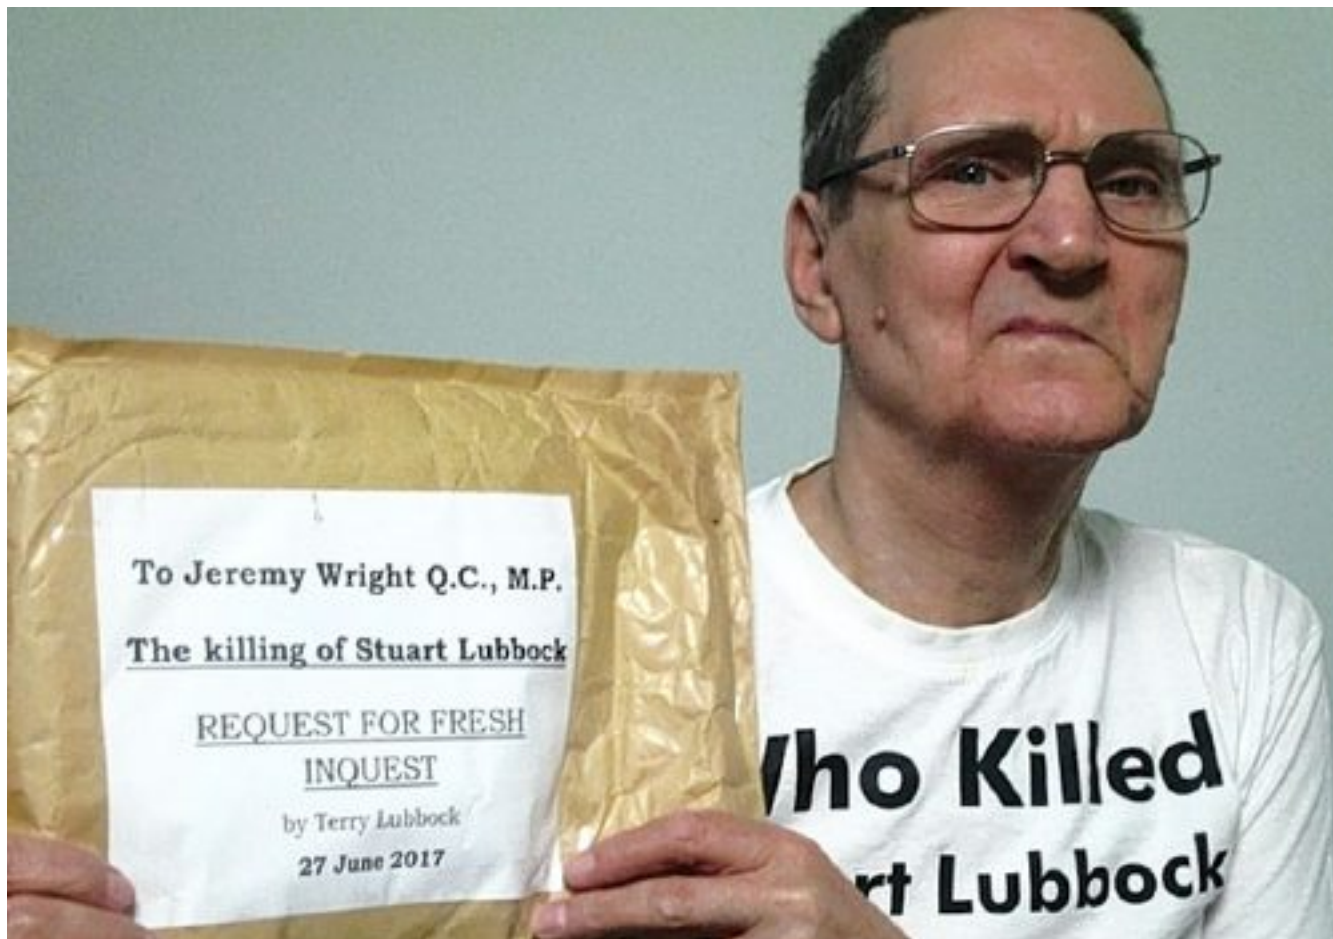

"It's an exciting job where no two days are ever the same and you can go home at the end of your shift knowing that you've been doing something to make the world safer."

"Since I joined Essex Police I've seen first-hand what a great force it is. The workforce is alive with people who are full of passion and enthusiasm, with victims at the heart of all we do."

"Most importantly, this force is making a huge difference in keeping the communities of Essex safe – be part of that and come and join us."

Essex Police is also hosting a careers event for those interested in becoming a Police Constable.

It takes place on Tuesday July 11 from 5pm to 8.30pm at Harlow College in Velizy Avenue, Harlow, CM20 3EZ.

Terry Lubbock wants a second inquest into his son's death

Father hopes new inquest will get justice for Stuart

Dad says first hearing into son's death was 'defective in serious ways'

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

TERRY Lubbock hopes a second inquest will bring justice 16 years after his son was found dead at Michael Barrymore's Roydon mansion.

In March 2001 Stuart Lubbock, 31, was found in the entertainer's swimming pool with injuries suggesting he had been sexually assaulted.

Nobody has been convicted of assaulting or killing him.

Submitted

On Wednesday, June 28, his father submitted a 60-page document to London-based attorney general Jeremy Wright QC stating the original 2002 inquest's open verdict was "defective in serious ways".

Meanwhile, Mr Barrymore is attempting to sue Essex Police for wrongful arrest after the former Strike It Lucky host and two other men were held overnight for questioning in 2007.

Mr Lubbock, 72, who lives in a Harlow care home, said: "We desperately need a new inquest to determine and underline those three things that happened to my son."

"Rape, serious sexual assault and murder."

"Ten years ago the police arrested Barrymore and two other men on suspicion of rape, assault and murder."

"But shortly after they are released."

There are a lot of question marks."

Tony Bennett, legal advisor to Mr Lubbock, penned the letter of appeal.

His reasons for wanting a second inquest include a police man's statement that Mr Lubbock's body was found in the pool was 'false', Essex Police committed 'misconduct' in allowing Mr Barrymore's manager Mike Brown to record the crucial pool temperature and the police 'failed' to analyse the evidence properly.

Mr Barrymore's High Court proceedings against Essex Police began in May and are yet to be resolved.

Mr Lubbock said: "We waited for a long time to collect that evidence."

"I think it is a 50/50 situation (of the second inquest going ahead)."

"It did not go well in the first inquest."

"I trusted the police and they let me down."

Mr Lubbock previously welcomed news Mr Barrymore is attempting to make a TV comeback which he felt could be a

Michael Barrymore

'watershed' moment for the case. Recently he said residents had spoken of hearing "loud screaming," coming from the mansion at around 4am.

He added: "It has been so long I think people there might have loosened their lips about what happened. The main reason (for wanting a second inquest) is that hopefully somebody who went to that party will come forward."

"That could be an introduction to what happened."

A decision about whether to hold a second inquest is unlikely to be made for several weeks.

■ If you have information about Mr Lubbock's death please call police on 101.

Colleagues pay tributes to environmental champion

Council officer dedicated himself to improving area's green spaces

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A CHAMPION of Harlow's environment and green spaces has died at the age of 48.

Harlow Council officer Darren Fazackerley died on Friday, June 23, following 23 years of service at the local authority.

Most recently he served as landscape and biodiversity manager, but he will be best remembered for helping secure prestigious green flag honours for Parndon Wood Nature Reserve and Harlow Town Park.

Jon Clempner, council leader, said: "Colleagues across the council were shocked and saddened to hear of Darren's passing."

"He worked for the council for 23 years and he was widely known by many environmental community groups and volunteers who help to maintain the town."

"Darren was instrumental in Harlow achieving its first ever Green Flag award at Parndon Wood Nature Reserve in 2009, an accolade that the reserve has held on to for eight years in a row."

"This achievement, along with the Town Park getting its first award last year, was something which he was extremely proud of

and rightly so."

Mr Fazackerley leaves behind his wife and two children.

Mr Clempner continued: "He also loved running and keeping fit and was part of the council team that supported Parkrun to successfully set up in the Town Park."

"He took part in many events outside of work to raise money for charity."

"Our thoughts at this time are with Darren's family and all those who knew him," added Mr

Clempner. "His contribution to the town, commitment to the council and support he gave to local groups will be sorely missed."

Man took OAP's credit card after asking for help

A PENSIONER is furious after a man she helped in the street slyly stole her credit card and spent £2,500 of her money on German websites.

Joan Barnes, 81, was heading towards Sainsbury's in Ongar with her husband John when they were approached by a stranger on Saturday morning.

The man, who Joan has described as being in his 30s, smartly dressed and speaking with an Eastern European accent, asked the couple if they had change.

Joan, from Great Stony Park in Ongar, said: "We were walking along our side of the road and as we got towards the Tesco, a guy came up the road, approached us and asked my husband if he could change a £2 coin.

"John took out two £1 coins but the guy said it was no good as he needed a 50 pence piece.

"I said I thought I had a 50p."

Joan, who had her purse in her hand, opened it up to try and find the right change for the stranger.

It was at this point the unknown man took the purse from her, claiming to have seen the coin he supposedly desired.

Taken aback by this bold move, Joan grabbed back her purse, insisting she would find the coin herself.

"I didn't take my eyes off him," said Joan, a retired bookkeeper and personal assistant.

Another

"I got him a 50p, then got him another one and we went off to Sainsbury's.

"I went to pay at the till and I realised he had taken my credit card but no money or anything else was missing."

The couple quickly headed to Ongar police station, but on finding it closed, they rushed home so Joan could contact Sainsbury's Bank to report the theft.

After speaking to various departments, she was finally put through to an adviser who had some shocking news for her.

"I was on the phone for so long," said grandmother-of-three Joan. "They said someone had my four-digit pin but I'm sure no one could have done – I was so certain."

"I got passed to different people and then one adviser asked me if I had spent any large amounts."

It turned out that three huge transactions totalling around £2,500 had been charged to Joan's card within ten minutes of each other.

To make the situation even more confusing, the transactions could be traced back to a town in Germany that Joan had never heard of.

Reassure

Fortunately, Sainsbury's Bank has been able to reassure Joan that she won't be liable to pay for the fraudulent transactions, but encouraged her to contact the police.

Joan said: "They couldn't have been more pleasant about the whole thing. I was shaken when I realised how much money had been taken. I'm not shaken now, but I am angry."

"I was just so angry that I had been gullible because he seemed a pleasant enough fellow – it has made me less trustworthy."

"I want other people to be prepared but I don't want to live in a world where I act like I can't trust people."

John, 81, has been left feeling the same way as his wife, insisting that it is the last time he changes money for anyone.

He was so angry after it happened, he even headed out after dropping Joan home to see if he could find the culprit.

The couple did try to report the crime to police by ringing 101, but became slightly flummoxed when they were connected to the Chelmsford station.

"I tried all Saturday afternoon to get hold of the police. I tried 101, I think I did that first of all, but it kept connecting me to Chelmsford."

Essex Police was approached for a comment but had not supplied one by the time we went to press.

Essex Police carry out their operation

Officers arrest 75 during crack down on those driving whilst 'under the influence'

ESSEX Police have arrested 75 people in just three weeks as part of a month-long crackdown on drink and drug drivers.

The force is focusing on stopping motorists driving under the influence throughout June.

In three weeks, 52 have been arrested on suspicion of drink driving and 23 on suspicion of drug driving.

Adam Pipe, casualty reduction manager for Essex Police, said: "Drink or drug driving seriously impairs your ability behind the wheel and can have devastating consequences.

"Nobody wants to experience how it feels to lose a loved one so I would urge anyone who has any information about a drink or drug driver to contact us."

"I also want to re-iterate that anyone who is arrested during this campaign and is convicted will be named, shamed, and their photo will be put out to the public."

To report a drink or drug driver call police on 101 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

Group deny assault after twerk incident

Court shown footage of group following attack victim

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A GROUP of six men charged with GBH allegedly attacked a victim who "twerk" in a Harlow nightclub.

Luke Martin was accused of responding angrily to a man who 'grinded up against him', in Twenty One Bar on September 4, 2015, and being one of five men to later beat him up outside at around 3.30am.

Martin, 19, of Joyner's Field, Harlow, has pleaded not guilty to one count of GBH, as have other defendants Jordan Hinton, 20, of The Briars, Harlow; Danny Lockett, 21, of Little Brays, Harlow; Craig Quennell, 22, of Long Banks, Harlow; Luke Quennell, 19, of Long Banks, Harlow and Sean Stuart, whose age and address could not be supplied.

Gather

On the first day of the trial on Tuesday, July 4, Chelmsford Crown Court saw CCTV footage showing the six gather and follow the victim, but the incident

Anwar Nashashibi, prosecuting, said: "The victim was knocked down unconscious by a punch and was kicked and punched in the body and head."

In a statement heard in court the victim said he suffered a fractured cheekbone, skull, nose and eye socket, while also being left with memory and hearing loss.

He also was unable to work for a period which cost him £1,200 in wages.

Mr Nashashibi said: "The motive was a perceived insult to Luke Martin that happened inside the club, it seems the victim twerked to him."

"The bouncer asked him to leave the club. He wanted revenge and the defendants helped him to get it. They said they wanted to 'fking kill him'."

The barrister said the victim's friends had tried to stop the attack but they carried on punching and kicking even when he was unconscious.

It is believed the victim was drunk at the time.

It was revealed Hinton, in a text message to his mum the same night, wrote: "(I had a fight) with some kid."

"He ripped Luke's shirt so it kicked off."

"Luke pushed him because he tried to twerk with him."

The court heard in a text to his girlfriend Martin said the group knocked out the victim and wrote: "Let's hope they don't catch me or anyone else or it's five years straight."

Statements

The statements given by five of the defendants, excluding Stuart, denied they were aggressors and that someone they did not know was the perpetrator.

In Martin's statement the defendant recalled giving the victim a slap in the face once he was on the ground to see if he was all right.

Sasha Bailey, defending Martin, disputed whether her client had been seen acting aggressively.

The trial continues.

Officers believe the casualty, who is in his 30s and was taken by air ambulance to Addenbrooke's Hospital in Cambridge, may have been assaulted.

Police and paramedics were called at 11.30pm last Monday evening following reports that a man had suffered a serious head injury.

Detectives have opened an investigation into the incident, so any witnesses to the incident are asked to come forward.

Trial of six accused of GBH starts

THE trial of six men charged with causing grievous bodily harm to one man in Harlow Market Square nearly two years ago started this week.

The half-dozen defendants all previously pleaded not guilty to the charge relating to an incident on September 4, 2015, and appeared in Chelmsford Crown Court on Monday, July 3.

Allowed

Judge Jonathan Seely, who allowed all counsel to remove wigs in a hot courtroom, swore in and then dismissed the jury.

The defendants, who all have the same indictment, are: Jordan Hinton, 20, of The Briars, Harlow; Danny Lockett, 21, of Little Brays, Harlow; Luke Martin, 19, of Joyner's Field, Harlow; Craig Quennell, 22, of Long Banks, Harlow; Luke Quennell, 19, of Long Banks, Harlow and Sean Stuart, whose age and address could not be supplied.

The trial proper began on Tuesday.

Community groups in with chance to win £25k cash pot

THE OneFamily Community Awards is open for nominations and the financial services provider is urging its customers across Essex to enter.

There are different categories are: health, disability and social care; lifelong learning; active living; and community groups.

Each category will have eight winners with four projects receiving up to £5,000 and three projects winning up to £10,000.

One lucky project will be awarded a whopping £25,000.

The Community Awards are an excellent way for OneFamily to give something back to their customers.

Support

Karl Elliott, customer strategy director at OneFamily, said: "As we are owned by our customers we want to do more than just provide great products.

"We want to help our customers, their families and the communities where they live in other ways, and our OneFamily Foundation enables us to do just that."

The OneFamily Foundation was created to give the customers the opportunity to support their local community.

Last year, Chingford Tennis Club was awarded £5,000 to revamp the worn-out courts at Rolls Park Sports Ground.

The renovation will benefit the club's 300 regular members, from a variety of generations.

Karl added: "In 2016, we touched the lives of more than 100,000 people through the awards, and this year we want to help even more – giving even more people and communities the chance to get involved.

Projects

"Projects must be nominated to be in with a chance of winning, so I want to encourage OneFamily customers across Essex to get involved and nominate the good causes that mean the most to them."

The Community Awards are currently open for entries and close on Wednesday July 19.

OneFamily customers can nominate their local project through their website – visit www.onefamily.com

Harlow voted one of worst places to shop

Town comes in at 779 out of 1,000 in retail health survey

HARLOW has been ranked as one of the worst towns for shopping, according to a new report.

In the study carried out by retail specialist Harper Dennis Hobbs, 1,000 retail centres across the country were assessed based on their 'retail health', with Harlow coming in at 779th.

Factors

A combination of factors are taken into account when determining the ranking of each centre forming what is known as the Vitality Index.

These include the proportion of up-market shops to the proportion of value-led shops, the vacancy rate and the proportion of what are referred to as 'undesirable' shops such as pawn-brokers, money lenders, and book-makers.

Additionally, these variables are

compared to the demographic of the centre and its catchment area and are given a greater score if the two integrate well to add to the local community.

Jonathan De Mello, head of retail consultancy at Harper Dennis Hobbs, said: "By popular demand from both retailers and investors, HDH have incorporated additional small towns and high streets, which gives a greater range to the ranking, and allows for comparison of local high streets with major retail destinations.

"We've also included a number of temporal variables, tracking the change in retail mix of a centre over the past five years, to credit those that have improved, and penalise those that have deteriorated."

Closures

Harlow recently saw the closure of Linens Direct in The Harvey Centre and Dorothy Perkins in The Water Gardens.

Cambridge took number one spot as the best place to shop, while Westfield in London came second, followed by Knightsbridge in third.

Shopping in nearby Bishop's Stortford ranked in at 120 and shopping in Hertford was placed at 127.

78-year-old man makes first appearance in crown court facing historical child sex abuse charges

A 78-YEAR-OLD Harlow man facing eight child sex abuse charges has made his first appearance in crown court.

Bryan Lyall, of Potters Field, previously pleaded not guilty to indecently assaulting three girls then aged under 16 between 1964 and 1974.

Several of the charges relate to alleged offences against girls aged under ten and in one of the counts the girl was only four years old.

A jury was sworn in at Chelmsford Crown Court on Monday and prosecutor Marc Brown summarised the charges.

'Bullying'

He told the court the complainants said Lyall sexually abused them, in some cases, by touching them and forcing them to masturbate him.

Mr Brown said: "The defendant was a bullying and domineering figure who could be quite violent."

Both Lyall, wearing a white shirt and green cardigan, and defence barrister Janick Fielding did not speak. Judge David Turner QC told the jury to return to the court for the first day of the trial proper from 10am on Wednesday.

He said: "These are serious charges which he faces many many years after they occurred.

Historical

"He deeply refutes the allegations. The crown court is trying a lot of these (historical) cases these days. These cases are often quite nuanced and you need to have your thinking caps on."

Once again, town turns into capital of sculpture

Art trail will return this weekend

By Huw Wales

huw.wales@hertsexnews.co.uk

HARLOW'S town centre will once again be transformed into a treasure trove of artwork as a popular sculpture trail returns.

The Harlow Art and Sculpture Trail, which first took place in 2014, will showcase work from local artists on streets and in the windows of shops and businesses between this Saturday and July 23.

The trail, which is part of the Essex Summer of Art, was organised by the Harvey Centre, Gatehouse Arts, and the Gibberd Gallery.

The town was named the world's first sculpture town in 2010 because it was home to such a high number of nationally important sculptures and their creators.

Anniversary

There are 20 venues taking part in this year's event as the town celebrates the 70th anniversary since it was designated as a new town.

As part of these celebrations there will be exclusive exhibitions taking place during the trail.

Bryan Young, centre manager at the Harvey Centre, said: "We are delighted to be taking part in the Art and Sculpture Trail again this year."

"It is a great way to give local artists a platform, showcase the range of sculptures in the town and highlight the thriving creative scene in Harlow."

Sculptures on the trail include Henry Moore's Family Group, which looks out of the foyer of the Civic Centre, and Dame Elizabeth Frink's "Boar" in the Water Gardens.

To visit all of the artworks and sculptures, pick up a free map of their location from one of the locations taking part, including the Harvey Centre, the Harlow

Library, Harlow Playhouse, and other businesses in Bird Cage Walk.

In some businesses there will be a chance to buy some of the artwork on display.

'Sorry our machines still reject the new £1'

THE Water Gardens in Harlow has apologised after complaints that only one of its car park machines accepts the new £1 coins.

Shoppers driving to the popular shopping centre are finding it increasingly difficult to pay, with just the one meter accepting the new-style tender that came into use in March.

With the cheapest parking ticket costing 90p, paying with coins can be problematic, with older-style pound coins now rarer.

In addition, it is claimed the card function does not work on any meters.

Stephen Dodd, of Bellfield Gardens in Harlow, said: "The new £1 coin became legal tender on March 28."

"Why do the parking machines in The Water Gardens still not accept this coin at a point when the old coins are becoming rather scarce?"

"Not least because no machines accept payment cards or cardless payment."

Phased out

The old-style £1 coin will be phased out in October.

Mr Dodd added: "If they want people to use the shopping centre they need to get this sorted quickly as they only have until midnight on October 15 when the old coin ceases to be legal tender."

"I simply do not want to carry around pockets full of coins when most public parking today offer app or cardless payment facilities."

A spokesman from the shopping centre said work was being done to update the remaining machines.

He said: "The Water Gardens car park has one machine that accepts the new £1 coins."

"This is located on the upper car park outside the Asda store."

"We are working with our partners to update the remaining machines."

"This will be complete by mid-July and we apologise for any inconvenience this may cause our customers."

fantastic place to be in business'

Award sponsor gives a ringing endorsement to companies in Essex

A LONGSIDE this year's headline sponsors, a great line-up of category sponsors is forming for the annual Essex Business Excellence Awards.

Businesses such as Choice Finance, James Hallam, Inspirational Magazine London and Jewson have thrown their weight behind one of the 13 categories set to be celebrated on the night of Wednesday, November 29.

Joining the list is Rickard Luckin, which has recently been confirmed as the category sponsor for the Business Entrepreneur of the Year award.

Rickard Luckin is a firm of chartered accountants and tax advisers with offices in Chelmsford, Basildon and Southend, working with individuals and businesses.

With the awards always highly anticipated and enjoyed by many, the support of these local businesses ensures another incredible year of the awards.

Peter Leonard, director at Rickard Luckin said: "The awards are a great way for local businesses to show their commitment to the local economy, supporting our community in the process.

"There is a great deal of focus on London, where local companies are clamouring to generate work and where people feel that wages are higher and opportunities more plentiful.

Recognition

"However, Essex is a fantastic place to be in business, and for those businesses that are selected as finalists and award winners, the recognition of their hard work and support to the county is vital in encouraging more businesses within the area to support and develop the local community."

Once nominations for the business awards close on August 25, Peter will collate a judging panel formed of members of Rickard Luckin and whittle the applications down to just three finalists.

Throughout this process they will be looking at the individual achievements of the entrepreneurs.

Explaining their association with this particular award, Peter said: "We chose this category because small businesses are often quoted as the 'life-blood' of the country.

"We need more entrepreneurs to start and develop these vital businesses to ensure that the economy can grow.

"Many people start businesses every day. For example, last year just over 600,000 companies were incorporated, with 74,000 of them in East Anglia.

"We are keen to recognise

Rickard Luckin
Chartered Accountants and Tax Advisers

those business leaders with the entrepreneurial spark to develop and grow their ventures to become the large and successful companies of tomorrow."

With Rickard Luckin firmly established in the county, Peter was perfectly placed to share the reasons he believes Essex is a great place for businesses to flourish. "Essex is close enough to London for local firms to win work from their competition within the capital, whilst still enjoying an independently thriving business economy. With two international airports, the new port, and easy access to the rest of the country as well as Europe, it is clear that Essex provides a superb infrastructure for business growth. The diverse range of Essex-based businesses, from multinational companies such as Ford, Costa, the Stobart Group and DP World, right through to the thousands of start-up companies, means that the opportunities within the county are perfect for developing and growing businesses."

Bright

In 2016 Rickard Luckin was formed from the merging of two chartered accountants, Rickard Keen and Bird Luckin, and the future is looking bright.

Detailing what he expects to be on the horizon for the company over the next 12 months, Peter said: "We will be continuing to develop a strong team.

"We were proud to have recently received an award ourselves, for 'Training Firm of the Year' by the South Essex Society of Chartered Accountants, and we have already recruited four students to begin our September training programme.

"In addition, growth is a key driver for our business and we are looking to increase our client base, so that we can support even more businesses across the county. We are interested in opportunities to bring people into the business and are looking to collaborate with other like-minded firms."

Beauty And The Beast (PG)

Strong-willed bookworm Belle (Emma Watson) rebuffs the amorous advances of preening Gaston (Luke Evans), who wonders how he'll know when he is in love. "You'll feel nauseous!" retorts his manservant Le Fou (Josh Gad).

Before Gaston can find out, Belle trades places with her inventor father Maurice (Kevin Kline) as eternal prisoner of an accursed Beast (Dan Stevens) in his crumbling stronghold.

The gloom of incarceration is lifted by the kindness of enchanted servants including tightly wound clock Cogsworth (Sir Ian McKellen), flirtatious candlestick Lumiere (Ewan McGregor), and clinking teapot Mrs Potts (Emma Thompson) and her teacup son, Chip (Nathan Mack).

As petals of an enchanted rose fall, Belle glimpses beneath the fur of her tormented host and acknowledges that "there may be something there that wasn't there before".

Beauty And The Beast is a ravishing live action remake of the 1991 Disney animation, bolstered with three sparkling new ballads, courtesy of composer Alan Menken and lyricist Tim Rice.

Watson is a spirited heroine and is blessed with a sweet singing voice, and Stevens teases out the humanity of his fallen prince. Both cede the limelight to the twin comic tornadoes of Evans and Gad, who elevate their homoerotic bromance and bring the tavern down with the lyrically wicked sing-along Gaston.

Distinguished by stunning production design, Bill Condon's picture doesn't quite scale the dizzy heights of its animated predecessor, but comes delightfully close.

Get Out (15)

Gifted photographer Chris Washington (Daniel Kaluuya) is nervous about a road trip to meet the parents of his girlfriend Rose (Allison Williams). "Don't go to a white girl's parents' house," advises Chris' wise-cracking best friend Rod (Lil Rel Howery), who proudly protects the public as an officer of the Transportation Security Administration (TSA).

Ignoring his pal's warning, Chris drives with Rose to her parents' pristine community, where he is warmly welcomed by Dean Armitage (Bradley Whitford) and his psychiatrist wife, Missy (Catherine Keener).

Something about the neighbourhood feels out of kilter and Chris is unnerved by the passive behaviour of the Armitages' black groundskeeper Walter (Marcus Henderson) and maid Georgina (Betty Gabriel).

When Missy discovers Chris is struggling to give up smoking and offers to use hypnosis to cure his filthy habit, meeting the parents becomes a bruising battle for survival.

Get Out is a razor-sharp satire, which draws inspiration from the creeping dread of The Stepford Wives to take a scalpel to simmering racial tensions in present day America.

Jordan Peele's slickly engineered horror prescribes shocking violence and laughter in equal measures, carefully exposing the ignorance that simmers beneath the surface of polite middle-class liberalism.

Spidey's back in the swing

Tom Holland stars as Peter Parker and his superhero alter-ego in Spider-Man: Homecoming

SPIDER-MAN: HOMECOMING (12A)

Jon Watts' slick reboot of the Marvel Comics superhero – the third iteration in 15 years – spins an impressive web of rites-of-passage drama, buddy comedy and bombastic spectacle.

There's a goofy, youthful vibe to this incarnation of Peter Parker, played by British actor Tom Holland, who recently turned 21 years old.

He certainly looks more convincing as a socially awkward high school student than his big screen predecessors – Tobey Maguire was 26 when he slipped on the spider suit, Andrew Garfield was 27.

Holland sparks a terrific on-screen double act with Jacob Batalon as Parker's best friend Ned, who discovers his buddy's secret identity by accident and almost self-combusts with fan boy questions.

"Can you spit venom?" he giggles. "Can you summon an army of spiders?"

A cute homage to arguably the greatest coming-of-age comedy of all time – Ferris Bueller's Day Off – is affectionately tossed into an origin story that doesn't feel the need to replay Peter's encounter with a radioactive spider.

Instead, six screenwriters reference events from Captain America: Civil War and position Tony Stark (Robert Downey Jr) as a surrogate father figure and mentor to 15-year-old Parker while the boy grapples with his burgeoning powers and responsibility.

Several months have passed since the destruction of the Avengers headquarters and Peter has managed to conceal his crime-fighting alter ego from Aunt May (Marisa Tomei).

Jon Favreau as Happy Hogan, Robert Downey Jr as Tony Stark and Tom Holland as Peter Parker in Spider-Man: Homecoming

Best friend Ned (Batalon) is sworn to secrecy, joining Peter in their school's Academic Decathlon team alongside Peter's crush Liz (Laura Harrier), sardonic loner Michelle (Zendaya) and bullying rich kid Flash Thompson (Tony Revolori).

The pupils have a brush with death in Washington DC at the hands of salvage company owner Adrian Toomes (Michael Keaton), who has been robbed of his livelihood by Stark's offshoot, the Department of Damage Control (DODC), and has taken flight as a larcenous winged menace called Vulture.

Youthful impetuosity overrides common sense as Peter tries to prove himself to the Avengers by tackling the airborne madman alone.

In a demonstration of tough love, billionaire inventor Stark punishes Peter by reclaiming the lad's hi-tech suit laden with neat gizmos.

"If you're nothing without the suit, you shouldn't have it," he wisely observes.

Spider-Man: Homecoming isn't king of the slingers – Sam Raimi's 2004 sequel Sider-Man 2 retains that web-spun crown – but director Watts' opening salvo isn't far behind.

Action sequences are executed with verve, without swamping the screen in digital trickery, and the most dramatic interludes are underscored with snarky humour.

The script pulls off two impressive sleights of hand, one of which is a bona fide jaw-dropper, without sacrificing Parker and his growing pains as the emotional heartbeat.

Creator Stan Lee makes his obligatory cameo and there are a couple of additional scenes secreted in the end credits.

One tees up a venomous new adversary for a sequel in summer 2019, the second delivers a comedic flourish that rewards the virtuous.

INTERVIEW

Let's celebrate Britain's heroes

Carol Vorderman launches this year's Pride Of Britain Awards, and tells MARION McMULLEN why we all need heroes in our lives

FAMOUS guests such as Sir Paul McCartney, Tony Blair, the Spice Girls, Cilla Black and Queen Noor of Jordan packed into the Dorchester Hotel for the first Daily Mirror Pride Of Britain Awards, but Carol Vorderman says the real stars of the night were the unsung heroes.

"I always knew it was going to be special," Carol says of the memorable awards night back in 1999.

"It was amazing. Peter Willis, who is now Daily Mirror editor, was responsible for it and put it all together and it was done very quickly in five or six weeks.

"They asked me to host it. I was doing everything back then and presenting corporate events three times a week. I was practically living at places like the Dorchester Hotel and Grosvenor Hotel.

"I was also doing a two page feature for the Daily Mirror and it was all about introducing people to this new thing called the internet. Everyone used Yahoo then and I was the first to talk about this new search engine called Google. I remember I even tried to buy shares in it, but was told it was a private company and they were not selling shares then."

Carol says it was clear from the start that the Mirror Pride Of Britain awards, which are in partnership with TSB this year, were unique.

"Piers Morgan was at the Mirror then and wanted as many celebrities in the room as possible," she recalls. "There can be a lot of back-slapping at these types of events, but people sensed something special was happening and could see it becoming what it now is.

"Only about a third of the people at the event were award nominees, but their stories turned everyone silent. It was just... well... different."

It was Carol who convinced ITV to film the awards and she says they all met at Piers Morgan's office at Canary Wharf to sort out everything. "It just struck a chord with everyone," she remembers. "It was an emotional thing. The stories of these amazing people still gives me hope. They are remarkable."

Since the first Pride of Britain, royalty, prime ministers, and hundreds of leading figures from showbusiness, sport, politics and the arts have all taken part and Carol has hosted every event.

Her 88-year-old mother Jean, who sadly passed away recently, was by Carol's side at every major moment of her life and even forged her signature on the application for Countdown, which launched her daughter on the road to fame.

Jean was always proud of her daughter's role hosting Pride of Britain and Carol will be back celebrating more unsung heroes later this year.

"Two of my best friends were Pride Of Britain winners," says Carol fondly. "Astronaut Piers Sellers, who passed away last year, and Pepe Hart. She won the best teacher of the year award in 2008 and is one of the loudest people I have ever met. I love her to bits. She is genuinely one of my best friends

WHO'S YOUR UNSUNG HERO?

THE Mirror's Pride Of Britain Awards, in partnership with TSB, is back for the 19th year to honour the nation's unsung heroes and recognise the amazing achievements of ordinary people.

Nominations are now open and the search is on. It may be for a single act of incredible courage, a long-lasting battle against the odds or for inspirational campaigning.

They could be six or 106 - heroism has no age barrier. And they could have changed one life or changed the world.

Winners will be chosen by the Pride Of Britain judging panel from a shortlist drawn up from the nominations received.

The Pride Of Britain Awards ceremony will be held at Grosvenor House in London in October.

Nominations can be made online at prideofbritain.com/ nominate or you can pick up a form at your local TSB branch.

Categories include Outstanding Bravery, Child/Teenager of Courage, Lifetime Achievement, ITV Fundraiser of the Year, Good Morning Britain Young Fundraiser of the Year, This Morning Emergency Services Award, Special Recognition and TSB Community Partner Award.

Nominations close on Friday, August 25.

Carol at the launch of this year's event, far left, and, with her mum, Jean, left, who sadly died recently and was my Mum's friend as well and would take her to hospital visits. She's a very positive person and when I met her I thought 'That's what you want in your life.'"

Nominations are now open for this year's awards and Carol launched the search for the nation's unsung heroes with an appearance on Good Morning Britain alongside Rhea Khan, who was named Good Morning Britain's Young Fundraiser Of The Year at the awards last year.

Carol also waved off a Mini-driving team on a 1,000 mile road trip around the UK in a bid to seek out the most inspirational stories they can find.

This year has already seen tragic events in Manchester, Westminster and London Bridge and the Grenfell Tower fire, but there have also been stories of incredible spirit and courage, especially among the emergency services.

"It is inspiring to hear the stories," says 56-year-old Carol. "Stephen Sutton (the teenage cancer patient who raised millions for the Teenage Cancer Trust before his death in 2014) won a posthumous award and his story deeply moved people.

"It does not matter, though, if you raise a few thousand pounds or millions. It's all about the person.

"I have learned that winners share two things - an incredible, selfless desire to help others, and unbelievable modesty about what they have done.

"This is why we need you to tell us about your unsung heroes and nominate them so they get the recognition they deserve. It takes just five minutes and we want to hear about these people who do extraordinary things but don't realise how extraordinary they are. We are to find them and tell their amazing stories."

Butter for greasing
150g soft butter (or olive oil spread works well)
100g light muscovado sugar
1tsp vanilla extract
2 eggs
200g self raising flour
90g plain flour
150g low fat Greek yogurt
250g fresh or frozen strawberries (thawed if frozen), halved 1tbsp Demerara sugar
Icing sugar, to dust

METHOD

1. Pre-heat the oven to 180°C/fan 160°C/gas 4. Grease a 20cm round springform cake tin and then line with baking paper.

2. Put the soft butter or olive oil spread, muscovado sugar, vanilla extract, eggs, both flours and yoghurt in a large mixing bowl and beat with an electric mixer until the mixture is smooth.

3. Spoon the mixture into the prepared tin, and smooth down.

4. Decorate the top with the strawberries and sprinkle with the Demerara sugar

5. Place in the oven and bake for one hour or until a skewer inserted into the middle of the cake comes out clean.

6. Leave the cake to cool in the tin for 10 minutes, then turn out on to a cake stand or serving plate.

7. Dust the cake with the icing sugar, cut into slices and serve warm.

DOCTORS told Sally Bee's family to say goodbye when a rare heart condition caused her to suffer three heart attacks in a single week.

She was 36, and medical staff warned that it was impossible for her to live with the devastating damage her heart had sustained.

But Sally survived and continued to thrive until 12 years later she suffered another two heart attacks. Yet again, her lifestyle, food, thought and movement helped her survive and recover.

Today, she continues to glow with health and says her doctors are amazed by her resilience and believe that her lifestyle is keeping her alive.

The best-selling author and motivational TV chef passes on her life-saving information to others in her new book, Beelicious.

Former First Lady Michelle Obama is one of Sally's biggest fans and bought six copies of her earlier book The Secret Ingredient to give as gifts to her family, and best-seller The Bikini Promise was launched on Lorraine Kelly's ITV daytime show.

Lorraine says: "Sally is living proof that her approach to health and wellbeing really works."

Beelicious offers fad-free seasonal recipes along with personal wellbeing journals and advice from Sally.

The mum-of-three says: "Each of us has the power to shape our future. By eating well, you can support your body and help it to function better and for longer."

"You can protect your body so if and when disaster strikes, you are better placed to survive and recover."

"It's not just about food. It starts with food and includes being aware of your thoughts and attitude to life."

"We can all make big plans and reach for the stars, but that can only happen when you deal with the small steps every day and do the best you can."

■ Beelicious - Your Journal To Wellness is published by A Way With Media Ltd, priced £20.

I MAKE an annual trip which I enjoy very much, akin to the old Wakes' Weeks in Lancashire (my roots people, my roots) when once a year half the population would pack up and disappear to Blackpool and paddle and flirt.

My annual trip is a visit to the wine people at the Co-operative when they highlight some of their latest releases.

Here are two reds and two whites all under a tenner; other picks I'll share now and again as the weeks roll on by.

■ Kumala Fairtrade Pinotage Shiraz (£6.99, 12.5% abv): Hot off the press, the Co-op has worked with Kumala to create this new fairtrade pinotage and shiraz blend. The Co-op is the world's biggest Fairtrade wine retailer and sales of the wine will support investment into farming communities in the Western Cape.

What of the wine? Well I need a bit of persuasion with South African pinotage, but this blend is nice; the wine is ruby red, has ripe red fruits and strawberries on the nose, with pepper spice tingling away.

■ Muriel Tempranillo Rioja 2014 (£8.49, 13.5% abv) is a red I loved, with its sweet woody nose, tumbling cherry and strawberry aromas and a good balance of weight, fruit and acidity. It hums of sweet spice and vanilla and is a wine which is confident in itself. It would be proud to look in the mirror and say 'Hey, I'm very elegant'. Look - I write these notes when I'm in the moment. Stick with me.

■ Vanita Grillo 2016 (£6.99, 13% abv) was my favourite white wine - and also that of my guide, wine buyer Ben Cahill. It hails from Sicily and has a tremendous rush of grapefruit and lemon and lime aromas. In the mouth there's a thrill of citrus and acidity from start to finish - the wine has weight, it's not a fly-by-night white which your tastebuds will forget in an instant.

■ Vinho Verde 2016 (£5.99,

9.5% abv): This is a gentle spritzzy little thing and as vinho verde goes, it is spritzzy than most. These young wines from Portugal aren't made as traditional fizzy wines, but the carbon dioxide created in the fermentation can still be present, causing a wobble of a bubble. I won't bore you with geekiness but I'll simply say I'd love to sip this gently sparkling fresh white wine in the garden and enjoy its pretty citrus summer vibe.

■ In other news... I should give a Wimbledon nod to strawberries and fizzy things. If it helps, Sainsbury's tell me they commissioned a flavour expert to reveal the best drinks pairings for top strawberry varieties.

Professor Barry Smith used scientific methods to pair the flavour components of the different berries and sparkling wines and one of the most successful pairings he found was Sainsbury's Taste the Difference Crémant de Loire (RRP £11) with the Murano strawberry. Now I don't know one strawberry from the other but I can tell you that the crémant is indeed very nice with fizzy shimmers which pop with citrus together with a hint of creaminess.

It's made in the same way as champagne, so that's game set and match to your purse.

SMOOTH AND SLEEK OR ARTFULLY UNDONE - TAKE YOUR PICK WITH THIS CATWALK-INSPIRED STYLE

FROM the catwalks to the red carpet, slicked back hair has been EVERYWHERE this season. And no wonder - the sleek style is equal parts edgy and polished, and because the rest of your hair is down it's much easier to achieve than a complicated updo.

At the SS17 shows, hair stylists went down two routes. There was the perfectly preened and smoothed look, as seen at Balmain, Carolina Herrera and Marchesa, or the artfully messy wet-look vibe seen at Markus Lupfer.

Can't decide which to try? We got the lowdown from the experts on how to create both...

Slick chic and sleek

SLEEK AND SHINY

SAM McKNIGHT created this smooth, straight look at the Balmain SS17 show.

GET THE LOOK:

1. Lightly spray the hair with texture spray to prep, and apply a mousse to the roots for hold.
2. Create a sharp parting on the left side of the head to the crown with a pin tail comb.
3. Straighten the hair using a straightening iron, then apply gel on both sides and on top of the head and comb through.
4. Using a flat bristle brush, smooth the lengths, brushing from the top of the head, to seal in flyaways.
5. Finish with a moisturising cream for a sleek, wet look and set in place with a strong holding hair spray.

WET AND WILD

EMBRACING a natural, unpolished feel, the slicked back hair created by Bumble and Bumble at Markus Lupfer SS17 was effortlessly cool.

GET THE LOOK:

1. Wet the hair thoroughly with primer from root to tip.
2. Apply styling cream heavily on the roots, all the way down to the ends. Create a slick, heavy side parting and use a diffuser to blow-dry the hair.
3. Pull the hair back into a low quiff while keeping the side parting deep and defined. Ensure the hair is slick with product on the sides and slightly lifted on top.

4. Wet the hair down further with gel and finish with a spritz of hair spray.

YOUR HOME

Head into the blue...

Set sail for summer with fresh schemes inspired by stark skies and seaside settings. GABRIELLE FAGAN sources the season's key looks

You can't beat the blues – instead you should embrace them this year, as they're taking the interiors world by storm. Be inspired by three settings – coastal, Moroccan, and ocean style – featuring bright blue sky shades through to dramatic deep indigo and moody sea greens. Choose a theme, and create the look with our top finds...

CLASSIC COASTAL

"This year, there's a big focus on blues of all shades, and there's no easier way to use them than by creating coastal style," says Alex Whitecroft, head of design at I Want Wallpaper.

"Its enduring popularity is unsurprising, because it's timeless, informal and so easy to live with.

"It's all about recreating that peaceful, contented feeling that comes from a trip to the coast, within the home.

"Texture can play a key part and realistic faux-effect driftwood, wood beam or pebble-effect wallpapers are perfect for a beach hut backdrop.

"Stripes are a traditional choice for conjuring a crisp, fresh seaside vibe."

"Choose from a palette of cool blues and sandy neutrals to evoke hazy summer days by the sea, and build on the look with natural materials and furniture – distressed or weathered pieces will give a 'lived in' feel.

"Another fun way of introducing this style is by using wallpaper and accessories with nautical motifs, such as shells, anchors, lighthouses or vintage maps."

MOROCCAN MAGIC

"Moroccan style can be incredibly versatile," says Sarah Quilliam, head of product design at curtain and blinds specialists, Hillarys.

"The current trend for all things geometric inspired by ikat and batik designs, combined with the classic pairing of intensely hued blue and white, is Moroccan style made easy.

"It draws on a melting pot of influences. From a bohemian eclectic vibe that mixes rich Moorish colours with layers of vibrant pattern, through to calm minimalism, which blends a palette of cool white with accents of polished silver and bleached wood.

"It's not about going overboard. Instead, keep the backdrop simple with whitewashed walls and floorboards for an authentic, summery feel.

"Bring in patterned textiles in bold indigo blue and white, such as curtains or rugs, to give a space an instant lift, and accessorise with lanterns, tray tables, and floor cushions for an Eastern feel."

CATCH THE WAVE

"For a gentle, tranquil interpretation of shore style, replicate the colours of the ocean with its harmonious ever-changing blend of blue, green and teal shades," suggests Rebecca Snowden, interior style advisor, Furniture Choice.

"This palette will work well with natural materials – grained woods and stone – and can be dressed up or down to suit the mood.

"This look is a world away from the cheery beach-hut style, and more akin to a sanctuary on a far-flung shore.

"Layer pale, misty shades of blue, green and grey to give a tonal effect, and avoid anything too arresting, which will jolt the eye. Soft, floaty fabrics – so characteristic of sun-bleached and sun-drenched settings – would also work well.

"Dress a bed with linen and cotton throws and accessorise with glass and ceramics in blues and greens, and beachcomber items such as shells and driftwood."

The full suit of armour at the bottom of the stairs

YOU'VE GOT MAIL... STRICTLY SPEAKING

The stone lintels and siege doors of this manor house would persuade most people that the property has a long history. But despite its ancient façade, Manor Court is only 17 years old, built to be both a family home and a bed and breakfast by flamboyant owners Julie and Mike Frost.

If Tudor royals were to be sent back to the Future-style to the property, there would be plenty to make them feel at home. A full suit of armour stands sentinel at the bottom of the stairs while the house is illuminated in many parts by candlelight and the master bedroom is a riot of purple.

The property has links to celebrities, too. Singer Elaine Page and Strictly Come

The purple master bedroom

Dancing professional Camilla Dallerup have been guests at the B&B, which is for sale both as a family home or a business.

It also has some interesting fixtures and fixings, which agent Humberts says could probably be purchased separately, including a suit of armour and a pair of swords featured in the film Braveheart starring Mel Gibson, which are on the kitchen wall.

Manor Court is within the conservation area of Thorpe in Nottinghamshire and the asking price of £1.1m includes three reception rooms, a barn, and a study.

The five-bedroom property, which is for sale through rural agent Humberts, also includes four bathrooms.

HOME TO A REAL ROCKEFELLER

For most people in the UK the legacy of the Rockefeller banking dynasty boils down to one thing – a shorthand for spending lavishly.

Buy a bling pair of shoes or a flash car and your friends are likely to shout 'oi, Rockefeller' at you.

The family, which rose to prominence 140 years ago in the US, made its money from banking, oil and more recently investments in Apple computers.

The Rockefellers have been for many decades, and still are, one of the most influential dynasties in the US, pouring billions into philanthropic pursuits including medicine, education and the arts.

In March this year John D Rockefeller Junior, the last surviving offspring of the family's founding father John D Rockefeller, died aged 101 leaving a fortune worth some £3bn.

In his time, he had been chairman and CEO of Chase Manhattan bank, owned huge hunks of US real estate and left an art collection that would put most national galleries to shame.

It is estimated that John D, together with his wife Peggy, gave away some $900m during their lifetimes.

Their five children inherited millions via family trusts and were given the chance to get first dibs on many of the couple's properties, if they paid a fair market value.

One of the reception rooms in the Georgian-style home on East 65th Street, New York, which was owned by the late John D Rockefeller

But one of the homes, where the billionaire couple lived for almost 70 years, is now for sale after the children decided not to buy it.

It's a Georgian-style eight-bedroom townhouse on East 65th Street, New York, featuring four floors including a basement and a garden. Yours for $32.5m.

It might not look like much of a rock star property from the outside – and it is certainly not a patch on the notorious Supernova Heights mansion that brother Noel and the Primrose Hill set raised hell at during the late Nineties, but this white cottage was where Liam Gallagher called home for four years.

He owned the property from 2006-10, while he was married to All Saints singer Nicole Appleton before selling it to the current owners in 2014 following his and Nicole's split.

On the market for £1.65m, the two-bedroom property has a kitchen/diner, open-plan lounge, study

There are wooden floors, white-washed walls and a fire place.

Speaking to the Evening Standard magazine earlier this year, the former Oasis frontman bemoaned how he would be mobbed by fans every time he was trying to leave the property.

He recalled: "I'd open the door and get mithered to death straight away."

The 44-year-old, who has won praise of late for his performances at the One Love Manchester charity concert and his set at Glastonbury, and will release his debut solo album in October, now lives in a London penthouse with his girlfriend Debbie Gwyther, who is also his manager and publicist.

A statue of the late Terry Wogan was unveiled in Ireland last week in the broadcaster's home city of Limerick, although its likeness to the broadcaster, who died last year aged 77, has been questioned.

Nevertheless, Terry was fondly remembered in Ireland and the UK for his chatty fireside manner on TV and radio, and his Eurovision commentary.

Terry had a lesser-known side-line as a cricketer. This included captaining the Terry Wogan Celebrity XI cricket team which featured a glittering array of talent including Michael Parkinson, Tony Blackburn, Tim Brooke-Taylor and Roy Castle.

Wickenden and Terry Wogan

HOWZAT FOR A HOME, TERRY?

The team played at Taplow cricket ground in Buckinghamshire and was formed to raise funds for both the club and several charities.

The pitch, which is a short distance from Terry's former home in Taplow, is overlooked by Wickenden, a Lutyns-style house built during the 1980s by the club's president John Midlane.

He and his wife, who knew Terry well, peppered the home with cricket references.

The property has five bedrooms, four acres of land and nearby Taplow railway station is just 38 minutes from London Paddington.

The property is on the market with agent Savills Windsor (01753 834 600) at £4.35m.

WHO LIVED HERE? IT'S A MYSTERY...

I don't expect younger readers to know who actress Margaret Rutherford is, but I would expect them to have heard of the TV series that made her famous. Margaret was, as any clued-up murder mystery buff will know, the first on-screen Miss Marple of Agatha Christie fame.

But her acting range was much wider than that. Margaret was also a stalwart of 1950s Ealing comedy films including Passport to Pimlico, and her on-screen and stage colleagues were a starry bunch. She shared credits with Dame Maggie Smith, Elizabeth Taylor,

The kitchen of the Wimbledon house

Richard Burton, Marlon Brando, Sophia Loren, Donald Sinden, Diana Dors and Norman Wisdom.

But her life wasn't all amusing slapstick and Hollywood glamour. Margaret's mother took her own life, while her father murdered her grandfather before committing suicide.

Margaret was subsequently brought up in Wimbledon by her aunt.

That house is now available to rent via agent John D Wood (0203 1515 610) for £5,000 a month. It includes five bedrooms, a rear garden and garage.

If Wimbledon's sky-high house prices aren't your bag but you're after a piece of Rutherford history, then a road in Balham, also in London, could be ideal. A three bedroom terraced house on Margaret Rutherford Place costs on average £800,000, says website Rightmove.

YOUR GARDEN

With Diarmuid Gavin

Late June is a wonderful time of the gardening year – my home plot is full of flowers and lush green growth. However, among the spectacular displays, there's still work to be done.

Inspecting my borders the other evening I came across foliage which was twisted, blistered and deformed. I turned over a couple of affected leaves and found the culprits – an extended family of aphids had moved in.

Aphids come in a number of shades. There is the classic greenfly, there are creamy-yellow coloured aphids, pink ones (which are quite pretty to look at), black ones, even woolly ones, to name but a few.

They all reproduce prolifically and if you neglect to notice the beginnings of a colony they may have produced a number of generations before you spot the damage. Plants commonly affected by them generally have a lot of soft green growth.

At this time of the year aphids will be emerging and multiplying in huge numbers on lime trees. Aphids exude a sugary, sap-like excretion which will make the ground sticky and discoloured underneath. If there are plants underneath they tend to get a sooty mould growing on the honeydew.

But many other plants can also be affected. Recently I noticed a Choisya ternata had blackening leaves which appeared to be dying.

Choisyas are normally robust shrubs but this was covered in a sooty mould and the honeydew was coming from aphids on an overhanging lime tree.

Aphids not only distort and stunt young growth and cause secondary problems such as sooty mould – they can also be a disease carrier as they move from one plant to another. Because they are sap-sucking insects they can carry viruses or bacteria to the next plant.

It is very tempting to pop into a garden centre or hardware shop, buy a chemical insecticide and spray them into oblivion. But insecticides should really be avoided as they will often kill other beneficial insects, including those which eat aphids.

If you wish to spray aphids, just use a liquid made up of soft soap and warm water. It will clog their spiracles (through which they breathe) and kill them.

You will need to wash the soapy residue off the plants afterwards.

An alternative is to buy a biological control, such as ladybirds or lacewings, and release them into your garden.

Their larvae are voracious eaters of Something bugging you?

The aphids are coming... so get ready to fight for your plants

Encourage natural predators such as ants, left, and ladybirds

Poached egg plant (Limnanthes) and marigolds can help combat the pests

Blackfly and woolly aphids, can destroy the plants in your garden aphids. This doesn't mean you should watch and wait while your plants are destroyed either. Get a hose out and spray the aphids off the plant. Many of them won't survive the blasting and those that do will hopefully be eaten.

If there aren't so many, you can pick or rub them off the leaves with your fingers.

I had a blackcurrant bush years ago which was badly affected. I picked the worst leaves off the plant and destroyed them and sprayed the remaining leaves with the hose whenever I was out watering. The leaves improved hugely.

With any pest or disease problem, vigilance is very important – especially with aphids.

You can also place sacrificial plants in the garden near your precious ones to lure aphids away. For example, grow Calendula officinalis (pot marigolds) under apple trees and plums as they will draw away any blackfly.

Pot marigolds serve a dual purpose as they attract hoverflies, whose larvae also feed on aphids. French marigolds (Tagetes patula) and the poached egg plant (Limnanthes douglasii) also attract hoverflies and make great companion plants for your endangered specimens.

Another good decoy is Tropaeolum majus, commonly called nasturtiums.

The joy of hitting the natural balance is that although you may see a couple of blackfly or greenfly colonies on your nasturtiums, you can also watch hoverfly larvae devour the greenfly on your roses, or delight in your kids counting the spots on the ladybirds and see the light catching the delicate green wings of the lacewings.

Birds eat aphids too, so extend a big welcome to our feathered friends!

Watering is essential throughout the summer

Don't let the garden dry out while you enjoy the sunshine

■ WATER, WATER, WATER! That's your main job over the summer as we, and the plants, hopefully sizzle in glorious sunshine and keep fruit bushes well-watered in dry spells as well giving the fruit a chance to swell.

■ PLUMS, pears and apples can be thinned out this month.

JOBS FOR THE WEEK

This happens naturally as well – it's called June drop – but if you want bigger fruit, remove some of the smaller fruitlets.

■ CHECK brassicas (cabbages, broccoli, turnips, brussels sprouts) for butterflies laying their eggs – often you will find them on the underside of leaves.

Remove them, as, when hatched caterpillars will feed voraciously and could completely exfoliate your plant.

■ MOVE citrus fruit outdoors for the summer. Continue successional sowing of salads and sow outdoors cucumber, sweetcorn, squash, French, runner and broad beans.

■ PRUNE spring-flowering deciduous shrubs, such as kerria, philadelphus, forsythia, ribes and weigela as soon as they are finished flowering.

Nasturtiums also work a treat and are colourful and cheery to look at

ASK DIARMUID

Q I HAVE a problem with moss growing on the branches of my gooseberry bushes. I have cut branches from the centre, but the moss is still growing.

Do you know what I can do to cure the problem?

Ray Allford

A HI Ray. The pruning you did was the best course of action, allowing light and air circulation in.

Moss needs moisture to grow, so I'm wondering, is the soil a bit damp?

Sometimes lichen grows on the bark and that is harmless, but I would remove any moss by hand. You could use a product such as MossOff, which is completely organic and suffocates the moss with a layer of starch and won't harm anything else.

You might consider moving the plant to a place where drainage is less of a problem.

PLANT OF THE WEEK

ASTILBE

WHICH beauty likes to hang around in the shadows but makes sure she get lots of attention in the summer when she dons a bright feathery boa?

Astilbe - and what a great plant this is for semi-shade. It has attractive, finely-cut or serrated foliage and then these wonderful plumes of flowers in red, pink, purple or white in summertime. It's happy in sunshine as long as the soil doesn't dry out. Its key requirement is damp, poorly-drained soil - a boggy or poolside situation is ideal.

SKODA'S NEW SUV

By David Ward

Despite its rather boxy-shaped body and at times somewhat quirky interior Skoda's small family Sports Utility Vehicle, the Yeti, has become a firm favourite with buyers in the UK since it first appeared back in 2009.

A subsequent 2013 facelift further enhanced its appeal and in its own comparatively small way the Yeti has perhaps in an unfashionably manner been a significant sales winner for the Czech car maker here and in mainland Europe.

But all that is about to change come this autumn when an all-new (in every sense of the word) successor arrives and the Yeti name will be no more, which will undoubtedly disappoint some regular Skoda fans.

It's called the Karoq which Skoda bosses are confident will even further increase their presence in the small family SUV sector, one of the currently fastest segment of the new car market.

But when deliveries from dealer showrooms start here next January this five-adult seater Karoq will be up against some formidable opposition, noticeably the present best seller Nissan Qashqai, Renault's Kadjar and it's own in-house VW Group contender, the recently launched SEAT Ateca.

Exterior designer Karl Neuhold believes that his team having spent the past four years working "from literally a clean, white sheet of paper" they have come up with a model that looks different to all the others.

"We had to have a design look that was clean with sculptured body lines and an overall shape that was bold, imaginative that gave the car a masculine look and a true identity of its own," he told me at the international unveiling in Stockholm. "It still had to have the true Skoda DNA in its make up with that dominant nose at the front and horizontal lines running around the car."

In terms of outside looks there is definitely no trace of the Yeti and this Karoq is 160mm longer, 50mm wider and has a 60mm longer wheelbase, that's also identical to the Ateca, both being built on the same platform.

Naturally the Karoq shares much of the technology know-how, engines and mechanical underpinnings and parts as others in the VW group which of course gives it a head start and obviously saves the Czech in development costs.

At launch there will be a choice of five engines, two petrol and three diesels, again all well proven from the VW family stable.

Entry-level will see the 1.0-litre three-cylinder 113bhp petrol engine with 175Nm of torque and CO2 of 117 g/km and the other petrol will be a 1.5-litre four cylinder 148bhp unit with 250 Nm of torque and CO2 of 119 g/km.

The diesels will start with the 1.6-litre 113bhp with 250 Nm of torque and a CO2 of 118 g/km and next up will be a 2.0-litre 148bhp with 340 Nm of torque and a CO2 of 115 g/km and this latter one is expected to be the best seller here.

The only engine being offered with 4WD is the 2.0-litre 228bhp unit with 400 Nm of torque with a CO2 of 138 g/km and it will be offered with a seven-speed dual-clutch automatic transmission.

All the FWD versions will have as standard a six-speed manual gearbox, again from the VW workshops while Skoda CEO Bernhard Maier told the 400 motoring writers from across Europe at the unveiling that further traditional Skoda model variants, such as SportLine and Scout would follow including by 2019 their first PHEV plug-in hybrid in this range.

Drivers who like to drive vRS Octavia style sports versions won't be disappointed either because in due course such a derivative will be added to the Karoq line-up he declared.

How much will this new Karoq cost?

Obviously with over six months still to go before it reaches the showroom suggestion of prices are just that with a probable starting of around £18,000 mark for the one cylinder entry-level version, bearing in mind the current entry-level price for a Qashqai is £18,995 and for the Ateca its £18,150.

Taking a quick glimpse of the interior of this new Karoq and it certainly impressive and far better than the loveable Yeti with a centrally but high positioned and easy to use infotainment system and Skoda chiefs say there will four different options available with the entry-level looking impressive a 6.5-inch screen that has DAB radio and Bluetooth connectivity while for the first time in a Skoda the VW group's digital instrument panel will be part of the package.

Most first-timers looking inside this new Karoq will spot how much more passenger space there is, noticeably in the rear seats so Skoda's backroom team have used that extra body length and width of the car to good advantage.

Boot space is 521 litres but folding the rears seats down and this shoots up to 1,630 litres and one natty versatile space option to be offered will be a VarioFlex seating set up where all three seats can individually be taken out, or the whole lot together, which would give a load space in the rear of 1,810 litres.

As one would expect on any VW group new model today this Karoq has an ample number of safety features onboard while wheel choices will include, 17, 18 and 19-inch sizes.

So while true Yeti fans may mourn the passing of their model this all-new Karoq will be a different ball game as they say and offer so much more all round for families in particular looking for a stylish, fresh-faced practical and versatile family mover.

Pricing of course will be a key issue at the end of the day.

Baxter hauls Harlow to fine victory

HARLOW travelled to Hadleigh & Thundersley on Saturday hoping to stay close to the promotion spots in Shepherd Neame Essex Cricket League Division One.

The surface looked slightly better than usual and when skipper Rehman Ahmed won the toss, he elected to bat.

Harlow soon realised it was still a difficult wicket to bat on with balls misbehaving and struggled to build any real partnership.

Only Rehman showed any application with 36, before one keeping low trapped him lbw. With the score on 120-7, the game already looked to be Hadleighs, however all-rounder Nick Baxter (65no), walked to the crease and stretched the innings.

Along with the tail, who gave him support and the strike, his superb selective batting took the score to 209-9 off 50 overs, a defendable score.

Hadleigh also found their pitch difficult and lost both openers early.

Baxter and Mitch Howarde taking the wicket of each opener.

Hadleigh then set about to rebuild the innings. During this time, the Harlow bowlers kept it tight to make sure that none of the batsmen could get in on a difficult wicket.

The breakthrough came from leggie Ross Vasani taking a smart caught and bowled.

Baxter was then reintroduced into the attack and destroyed Hadleigh's innings.

He cleaned bowled three batsmen and found an lbw, as he finished with figures of 5-22. Hafiz Yawar (1-23) and Howarde (3-28) then mopped up the tail, as the home side were all out for 137.

Town fall just short in loss

HARLOW Town suffered a narrow six-run defeat at home to Walthamstow.

The visitors won the toss and made 239 all out from their 50 overs.

Ben Smith top scored for the hosts making 83, with opener Deepan Kandeepan falling three runs short of a half-century.

Jay Pathak was the best of the Harlow bowling attack taking 5-38 from his ten overs, including the big wicket of Smith.

With bowler Paul Morrell unable to bat, Harlow Town came agonisingly close to securing the win, with the last wicket falling with four balls to go and seven runs needed.

Openers Daniel Baldwin (45) and Ashley Alderson (25) had put on a fine opening stand.

Neil Gladwin (49) top scored and Daniel Farmer also contributed well with (32). Asif Bala took 4-42 for the visitors.

Duo deserved new deals reveals boss

Chapman says Hawks won't be throwing money around

HARLOW Town boss Danny Chapman says contracts for Charlie Dickens and Tommie Fagg are no less than they deserve after their end of season performances.

Dickens and Fagg, both 19, joined the club part way through last season with the former making 19 appearances in defence, while Fagg turned out six times in midfield as they narrowly missed out on a play-off place in the Bostik Premier.

And while Chapman admitted that he would like to bring another midfielder to the Harlow Arena, he believes the latest two additions show the club's intentions towards young players.

"They both did really well last year and thoroughly deserve their contracts," the Hawks boss said. "It shows our intentions towards them and young players and it's also good for the club to have young players coming through."

"Charlie was excellent last year, he had to wait for his chance, but when it came he took it and while Tom came in a little bit later he did really well so we're pleased.

"We're still looking for one or two players, we could do with another midfielder and a forward but we've signed two defenders and I'm happy with our wingers."

"Sometimes clubs and managers throw money around trying to find players, but we're not going to do that, there's enough time and enough players out there."

Harlow's pre-season preparations have already started, with their first game at home to Leyton Orient on July 15, and former O's player Chapman said the players have come back raring to go.

Upheaval

"We started back pre-season training on Saturday and the boys have come back in good condition, which is always a good thing to start with, and they're starting to feel their way back into things," he said.

"They're a club who have had a lot of upheaval and I'm really pleased for them that it has been sorted, it would have been catastrophic if they have folded and it's a game I'm looking forward too."
